As a result of Leo Easons declassification to last place in the 5000m and then a disputed decision involving Barbara Woodley in the ladies 500m knock-outs, the following statement was made by the Roller Speed Committee:

"The occasion was a most unsatisfactory one for the British party of competitors and Officials, and in several instances there were deficiencies in organisation and which, when brought to notice, were not rectified.....Added to the many incidences of mismanagement and wrong decisions to which attention was drawn, Mr.Lamb felt obliged to withdraw the British team from its engagement, action which had the approval of the British skaters and several other experienced speed skaters from this country".

"In the 500 Metres 'Knockout' event the four British skaters were in the last eight, and in the first Quarter-Final Mr Fry was fouled by an Italian [Cantarella] skater, and although all four Judges on that bend disqualified the Italian skater, the Referee at the opposite end of the track over-ruled them and disqualified the British skater. The team manager withdrew the British team, all but two judges left the track, most of the spectators left, and the referee continued the competition in which the Italians took the first four places."

2000 - BARANCABERMEJA, COLOMBIA - TRACK - 29 July to 1 August

Due to recommendations from the British Foreign Office the Federation of In-line Speed Skating decided that Great Britain would not be represented at these championships as "the safety of the athletes could not be guaranteed at this venue". France also boycotted these championships on similar grounds.

The track racing was scheduled to finish on 3rd August with 4th August being the rest day, however, due to inclement weather conditions the track events had to be re-scheduled to include a fourth day of competition. Although this did not affect GB directly, the Italian team had to gain special permission to field their road team on the fourth day as the track team were booked to return to Italy on 4th August.
